Naval Evpert Say Evans, as Commander of Fleet, Is Responsible for Mishap.

COURT-MARTIAL TALK.

Insisted that the Other Ships Had, Under Orders, to Keep in Line.

DAMAGES ARE SLIGHT.

Injuries to Battle-Ship Kentucky Do Not Go Below the Water-line.

Reur-Admiral Coghlan, Commandant of the Brooklyn Navy-Yard, sent a long despatch to Washington this afteroo going out. The talk among the navai damage to the Kentucky-because has been pretty well established that line-as it is about what the Court o' Inquiry will recommend after hearing all of the testimony.

There are those up high in naval circles who declare that in the end Admiral Evans may be court-martialled. or at least censured for the accident. The Admiral in command is the one always held responsible for any acci dent, especially of this kind, where the captain of every ship must keep in line with the flagship or be open to nediate suspension. It was only last summer that Admiral Evans suspended one of his captains for getting out of line with his ship. The suspen-sion of the captain lasted only a short e, as it was shown that the captain had made a mistake.

Same Rule Everywhere.

In such manoeuvres as that which the squadron was performing as the ships went out of the harbor yesterday it is the custom in all countries that no matter what the judgment of the captain of the individual ships is, he must keep in line. For this reason the naval experts and naval men put all the blame on the flagship.
"There will be the biggest kind of a row about this thing," said one of the reatest naval experts in the country to a reporter for The Evening World to-day after the Kentucky had docked at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard. "The whole blame should be put where it belongs-not to the individual captains, but to the Admiral of the fleet. The captains of the Kentucky and the Kearshoals, could not help poking their

It is estimated by the experts in the Brooklyn Navy-Yard that it will cost at least $20,000 to repair the damged Kentucky.

When the Alabama, following , the Kearsarge out of the bay four hundred yards away, rammed the Ken tucky, it was at first thought that she had been so badly damaged that she would sink.

"We didn't know just now badly we were hurt at first," said Capt. Barry, when he was seen to-day aboard the ship. "All our concern was for pelov the water-line and to save the ship Men were sent all over the lower par of her to look for leaks anywhere. the place that we went ashore there was no chance to put down a diver and we began to experiment with the starboard engine. "We didn't dare start it up for fea of making the danger worse. The chie engineer jacked the starboard engine were hauled out of the mud and got to Tompkinsville. Then he used a lit-tle steam and found that the starboard propeller worked. That showed that at least one or two of the blades were in-tact. We sent for the divers and they declared after examining the bottom as best they could under the circumstances that the Kentucky did not appear to be injured below the water line. That is our opinion to-day and I have so reported to the Commandant of the Navy-Yard.

Much interest is felt in the approaching meeting of the Amalgamated Copper directors to take action on the quarterly dividends. Recent trading in this stock has distributed it widely on the expectation that the dividend rate would be raised from 5 to 6 per cent. with a chance for an extra dividend. An unofficial calculation based on the known productive capacity of the Amalgamated properties indicates that this company's income for the fiscal year should aggregate $27,000,000. If such is the case a 6 per cent. dividend rate would still leave the company fully $1,500,000 excess each month to add to its cash reserve. Charjes C. Wissell, the new Deputy Water Commissioner for Queens, that he at one time ran a resort over there and was arrested and fined for putting a woman out of the place, was called to the Mayor's attention.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that Commissioner Ellison has already taken the matter up. If he has not, I will certain ly call it to his attention."

Commissioner Ellison later said: "I rave sent for Mr. Wissel to come to my office to-morrow morning for a full hearing and investigation. I appointed him on the strong recommendation of Borough Fresident Bermel, of Queens."
